

A microblogging site where conversations happen.

The most popular video sharing website.

The world's largest social networking site.

A social networking site that allows rich media content sharing and is popular to display music tracks and bands.

Is a social networking site popular among young adults ages 13-18.

Vimeo is a thriving community of people who love to make and share video. A place to upload, store and share all the video you create.

Habbo Hotel

A virtual world popular among youth.

Current TV

A podcast site for viewer created news videos.

A website for DIY videos.

Helps bloggers by collecting, highlighting, and distributing content and is the leading blog search engine that indexes new blog posts.

A way for websites to distribute content to subscribers via email or to mobile devices.

Upload and share your PowerPoint presentations and Word documents on SlideShare. Share publicly or privately. Add audio to make a webinar.

Wetpaint lets you build a rich, online community with wikis, blogs, forums and social networks, it mixes everything you need so you can create, collect, and organize content on your own social website.

WIKIPEDIA
The Free Encyclopedia

Wikis are often used to create collaborative, informational websites.

WordPress is an online publishing platform, allowing you to create blogs with rich media content, such as images and embedded videos.

A photo sharing website that also allows you to build image groups that anyone can join, and leave comments on photos.

A 3D online virtual world.

Really Simple Syndication allows content from a website or blog, to be distributed as it is updated to subscribers to the “feed” via email.

Improving the ranking of a website’s traffic results by earning high placement on search engines such as Google or Yahoo!

Where people share links to content from around the Web, and allow the community to vote on the best selections, driving the most popular links to everyone’s attention.

A social bookmarking service that allows people to tag, save, manage and share web pages from a centralized source.

Share photos, videos, status updates with your friends from around the web, including being able to pull content from your Facebook and Twitter accounts. People can comment on the content as it is updated in real time.

Enables you to share video content onto the web, directly from your mobile phone.

Makes use of your business professional network, helping to update your contacts about what is happening, showcase your experience or ask questions of your contact network.

Allows people to talk for free over the internet. You can arrange group video conference calls and set up informational groups, scheduling live chats and video discussions.

Broadcast press conferences, events, talks live. Can be created as a channel on the website, or embedded onto your website.

Distributes press releases over the internet, to both traditional media and for Search Engine Optimization.

Let's you build and customize your own social networking community.

Set up a group on Google that lets you share information and content via email or online with others.

A new app for iPhones that allows easy audioblogging, allowing people to upload recordings via their iPhone, that are then shared with a wider audience through iTunes and the Audioboo community. The recordings are easily shared via Twitter and can be posted on blogs.

The newest excitement from Google, it allows you to set up collaborative content groups, where you can feed blogs new content, or tweet information update to Twitter.